

Yanks Waiting for Dance Partners: First Lady of Hungary: Varied Views Here and There

THE FIRST LADY of Hungary. The Countess Karolyi, of Budapest, wife of Count Michael Karolyi, President of the Hungarian Republic

DANCING PARTNERS are scarce here. American soldiers at the Casino in Aix-les-Bains, France, ready to be ordered home, wait their turn to dance with "Y" girls

FREIGHT WRECK on the Trenton cut-off of the Pennsylvania Railroad this morning above Willow Grove. Cars containing finished lumber and coal are piled up on both the east and west tracks for a distance of about two city blocks

ONE OF AMERICA'S big guns that helped smash the Hindenburg line in the last days of the war. The view shows the giant gun mounted on a railway carriage ready for duty overseas

ADMIRAL SIR DAVID BEATTY, commander of the British fleet, enjoying a rest on his country estate. A member of his party is removing the Admiral's skates after a hockey game on the frozen lake.

A MADE-IN-AMERICA TOY. Toy airplane made by wounded Yanks at Dayton Hospital. The planes are equipped with "rubber band" motors. The plane soars a bit off the ground, the pneumatic tires on the wheels saving the little flier from damage on alighting.

MAKING NEW FACES for disfigured soldiers. Mrs. Anna Coleman Ladd, Boston sculptor and founder and head of the American Red Cross Studio for Portrait Masks in Paris, is in Philadelphia. Mrs. Ladd will talk at the Academy of the Fine Arts on the work of the studio in making masks that hide the disfigurement and even restore the natural expression
